General terms

The acquisition by a company of our energy indexes, is also an acceptance of the general conditions presented below. The specific conditions of sale for this type of product cannot contradict the general conditions.

The company Eoltech is not responsible for the use by its clients of the energy indexes that she markets. The user of these data is the only responsible for the consequences of any type of exploitation of these elements.

In case of a supply interruption of the data sources allowing the setting of the energy indexes, Eoltech will do everything in its power to make available to the client, when possible, indexes established on new bases. Generally speaking, the delivery time cannot be considered as part of a contractual engagement.

The amounts paid are refundable in case of a default of delivery for this product. All damages claimed by the client, for any reason, cannot be associated to a higher amount than the cost of the product.

As part of its commercial approach, Eoltech reserves the right to name the client company as a commercial reference.

Any disagreements relative to the validity, the interpretation and the execution of the present conditions falls under the exclusive jurisdiction of the trade tribunal of Toulouse in France (Haute-Garonne), for which the parties attribute exclusive competence.
